

Our Voices, Our Journeys

Black Communities in Peel

We invite you to use this family guide for exploration, discovery and to support discussion throughout the virtual exhibition. Take a tour through the exhibition here. Click on the different images to find out more and look around just as if you were there!

Our Voices, Our Journey's: Black Communities in Peel is a celebration of one of many Black communities in Peel Region. It highlights the personal journeys of leaders and mentors from the North Peel Community Church congregation. Their photos and objects illustrate stories of immigration and family life, and how they established a community of faith in Caledon.

Visit the “Your Story Matters” area of the exhibition. An artifact is an object made by humans. Artifacts tell stories and can answer questions about history.

Artifacts make history real and capture moments that matter. At PAMA, we display artifacts in exhibits to help explain and showcase different experiences. Objects connect people, are important reminders of the past and help celebrate our lives now.

Curate Your Own Mini Museum!

What artifacts tell the stories of your family life?

It’s time to tell your story and the history of your family. Get inspired by the objects around you to curate your own exhibit at home. Find some objects and photographs that are important to you and your family. After you have gathered your items, think of a title and description for your exhibit.

Exhibition Title

Description

Make Your Labels

Arrange your objects and write labels for them. On each label, write the title of the object and a short description about what it is. Use the below templates or get creative with your own design!

Object _____

Description

Object _____

Description

Take photos of your finished exhibit to share with friends, family and @visitpama.